Santa Barbara Plastic Surgeon Sees More than Brides Before the Wedding Day

In preparation for a wedding, cosmetic surgery enhancements and procedures are popular among brides and, surprisingly, even more popular among mother-of-the-brides and other relatives.

SANTA BARBARA, CA., JULY 21, 2009 – For many families, weddings are a monumental event in people’s lives and the bride and groom often enlist a variety of professionals to pull off the “perfect” day. Among the assortment of helpers are wedding planners, florists, photographers and, often, a cosmetic surgeon. Notably the cosmetic surgeon is not always for the bride or groom. Relatives such as the mother of the bride or groom, aunts, uncles and grandparents also seek the help of a cosmetic surgeon to enhance their aesthetic appearance to feel beautiful on the big day too.

Santa Barbara based cosmetic surgeon, Dr. Terry Perkins, owner of Cosmetic Surgery Center Medical Group, comments “many relatives of the bride and groom realize that they are going to be in pictures that will be proudly displayed for years to come, therefore they want to put their best face forward”.

Dr. Perkins treats relatives of the wedding party sometimes as far as one year in advance. “If the patient is planning to do a surgical-based treatment such as a face lift, neck lift or liposuction, I recommend that they plan ahead so that they are completely healed for the wedding day” says Dr. Perkins. For other semi-permanent treatments like fillers, such as Restylane, or wrinkle-reducers, such as Botox or Dysport, Dr. Perkins suggests getting these treatments a month or two prior to the ceremony insuring that the onset is complete and the person feels comfortable with the results.

For over 30 years, Dr. Perkins has been treating patients in Santa Barbara and Ventura counties. Whether they are seeking cosmetic aesthetic improvement for a one-time occasion such as a wedding or for other reasons, he uses the most advance technology and surgical techniques to give patients a natural, “non-operated” look which his patients cherish on the wedding day and beyond.
